Policy

Annually the president and president-elect appoint chairs and selected volunteers to work on committees.

Operational Procedure

The president (during his or her presidential term) or the president-elect (for making appointments for the next year) should consult with board members, committee chairpersons, members, staff and others in making these appointments.

Appointees are required to maintain current e-mail contact information and access, and may not opt out of e-mail communication.

It is the prerogative of the current seated president to select volunteering members to serve on additional committees as needed during the president's term.
